Arts & Culture Around here

What do you get when you cross New York City's world-class performance arts, San Francisco's colorful culture, Hollywood's silver screen fame, Colorado's intense rock climbing, Brazil's Carnival craze and France's cycling frenzy? Austin, Texas!

Performing Arts

There's a reason why Austin is known as "The Live Music Capital of the World". Austin's live music scene began blossoming in the early 1970s and continues growing today. With dozens of great live music events to choose from every night of the week, there is never a dull moment. If the fine arts are your thing, enjoy the many Broadway and Off-Broadway performances that roll through town, classical and modern dance, or professional theatrical shows (both traditional and avant-garde). For an evening of lighter entertainment fare, sit back and let Austin's local and visiting comedians point out the finer points of life.

Films

Austin is a mecca for filmmakers and actors alike who want to diverge from the Hollywood scene yet enjoy all the same resources. By now, Austinites are accustomed to witnessing movies being filmed all over town. Why travel all the way to California or Europe to scope out international stars? Silver screen royalty have been spotted in Austin's popular casual restaurants, bars, and cafes.

Cinemas

Austinites like watching films as much as they like making them! Austin hosts many local and international film festivals, such as the Austin Film Festival and South by Southwest Film Festival, which draw crowds from all over the world. Enjoy Hollywood blockbusters, award winning independent films and student short films at national and independent theatres citywide.
